Competition GNCTR 2024 RFI No. RFI_002

ISSUE DESCRIPTION AND REASON FOR RFI

Rule 9.2.6 states "A rug or similar material is typically sufficient floor protection." Our team was seeking clarification as to what falls under "similar material" and how thick the floor protection needs to be. Would something like foam be sufficient?

RESPONSE

Any material that can be placed underneath the Team's Technical Exhibition area that would not cause any scratches, dents, etc. to the flooring at the venue would be sufficient. This would include a rug, foam, neoprene floor mats, etc. There is no thickness that the protective material must be.

Garbage bags or plywood would be considered inappropriate.

The GNCTR 2024 OC reserves the right to assign a particular flooring protection for teams to use at any date, at the discretion of the Technical Exhibition vendor. If a particular protection is required to be used, an update to Rule 9.2.6 will be completed and a revised version of the Rule Book would be released.
